

Destruction

Tin Star

Going to take you out scratch brother
Bury your son before you bury your mother
Before the thrill kisser takes another
Lay down and await for your destruction
When they tell you everything's going to be alright
Don't let them fool you though you want to prove them right
When you realise that you've been strung along
Lay down and await for your destruction

There was an end that knew of no beginning
Never had a hope or chance in hell of winning
Time runs like water do what you've got to do
Lay down and await for your destruction

Going to take you out scratch brother
Bury your son before you bury your mother
Avoid the thrill kisser take cover
Lay down and await for your destruction

Illuminate the bright light to infinity
Beyond the bright light
Go towards the light towards the light towards the light

Lay down and await for your destruction

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songlyrics.band/>