

Atlas

The Wood Brothers

Hallelujah!

Well I just woke up from a dream
So far away
And it's no accident I landed here
Eyes wide open and seein' clear
I have come a long long way

I am wiser now

My man Atlas told me
I shouldn't try to hold his world up
He said, "Boy you got some muscle
That you have never used
All you got to do is go ahead and wake up"

Don't you try to hold my world up
Don't you try to hold my world
Don't you try to hold my world up
Don't you try to hold my world

Aphrodite

Well her suitcase was my burden
For so long
She said, "Boy you got some heart and soul
But that's not what your love is for Lay your burden down and we'll both be stronger"

Don't you try to hold my world up
Don't you try to hold my world
Don't you try to hold my world up
Don't you try to hold my world

I am stronger now

My man Atlas told me
I shouldn't try to hold his world up
Said, "Boy you got some muscle
That you have never used
All you got to do is go ahead and wake up"

Don't you try to hold my world up
Don't you try to hold my world

Don't you try to hold my world up
Don't you try to hold my world
Don't you try to hold my world up
Don't you try to hold my world
Don't you try to hold my world up
Don't you try to hold my world

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songlyrics.band/>